

Bill Harrigan, Stage Favorite and Hero, Wounded in France

Wife Gets "Don't Worry" Message From Captain, Now in Hospital

Is Cited, Then Killed

Death Follows Honor Paid to Sergeant Ames for Gallantry at the Front

Capt. William D. Harrigan, the former actor, who has been mentioned in many dispatches for gallantry in action as commanding officer of the Third Battalion, Co. I, 307th Infantry, has been wounded in battle, according to the following message received yesterday by his wife at 44 West 46th Street:

"Wounded. Don't worry." Mrs. Harrigan said that her husband was a member of the battalion under Major Whittlesey, which was rescued after five days in the Argonne Forest, surrounded by the enemy, and it is possible that Capt. Harrigan received his wounds in this engagement.

On August 24 last Capt. Harrigan led a detachment of troops who penetrated six miles into the town of Tannay, captured a large number of Germans, and brought back valuable military information. Again, during the fighting in the Argonne Forest, Oct. 3, he was mentioned in dispatches from the front by the cool manner in which he directed his men when they were attacked by low-flying enemy planes.

Capt. Harrigan is 32 years old, and a son of the late Edward Harrigan, of Harrigan and Hart. He was on the stage before he went to Plattsburgh, at the beginning of the war.

Sergeant James H. Ames, of 607 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, was killed in action September 9. Sergeant Ames' death occurred just a short time after he had been cited for conspicuous bravery in the general orders of the 7th Division. The citation read:

"Corporal James H. Ames, Company D, 307th Infantry, on June 24, 1918, distinguished himself by covering the retirement of companions when attacked by heavy forces of the enemy. He was cool under fire and exhibited a soldierly example to his comrades."

Ames entered the army at Camp Upton in September, 1917, was made corporal shortly thereafter, and in July of 1918, following the heroic act for which he was cited, was promoted to a sergeantcy. The last letter received at his home was written on August 26 and was dated from a German dugout that his company had just captured.

Lieutenant Bedell Neubert, who is reported as having died from injuries received in an aeroplane accident, had been training in aviation in France for about a year. Shortly after graduating from Lehigh University as a civil engineer Neubert joined the military unit of Cornell University and received his commission in the aviation service.

Ensign Gillette, second class, ensign, son of Acting Fire Chief Frank Gillispie, was lost at sea on September 30 when the freighter Tiendronda was sunk by a U-boat, according to notification received yesterday. Gillispie was twenty years old and enlisted in the navy in September. He was a member of the gun crew of the Tiendronda.

Private William Victor Murkin, 20, is reported killed in action at Chateau Thierry, was twenty-four years old and a stock broker at 49 Wall Street. He lived with his mother at 501 West 138th Street.

Last March, Murkin was gassed, but soon after returned to the trenches, only to collapse from shell shock. He again returned to active duty July 1 and acted as messenger until he fell mortally wounded.

Edward M. McKee, of Whitestone, Long Island, who is reported dead from wounds received in battle with the 336th Infantry, gave his life for the latest sacrifice of a long line of fighting foremen. His father, Fred McKee, fought in the Indian War of 1876. His great-grandfather took part in the Battle of Waterloo.
